SECTION V:

- 1) A "first medical use" of compositions comprising biphosphonic acid derivatives is already known from documents D1 to D4 (see the whole documents).

Therefore the subject-matter of claims 13 to 15 is not novel (Article 33 (2) PCT).

- 2) Closest prior art document for the assessment of claims 1 to 12 is document D2 which discloses the use of such biphosphonates as anticalculus agents in combination with the anticaries agent i.e. sodium or calcium monofluorophosphate for providing anticaries benefits while avoiding adverse effects on silicate filling materials present in the mouth (see the abstract, examples I, XIV, XV and XVI).

The subject-matter of claim 1 differs from this disclosure in that the biphosphonate is the pharmaceutically active compound for the prevention of secondary caries.

Therefore the problem to be solved by the invention was to provide pharmaceutically active compounds other than fluorophosphates for the treatment of secondary caries.

The solution is to use biphosphonates for this purpose.

Since this was not obvious for the person skilled in the art, the subject-matter of claims 1 to 12 involves an inventive step.
